"Health Coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever yet produced. This clever coffee substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real coffee is in it either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for coffee. No 29 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute," says the doctor. Sold by D. C. Spencer, Louisa, Ky.

Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle.

Infidelity is a moral desert of Sahara; nothing grows in it but sand. What has it done? What light has it flashed into darkness? What hope has it given to the despairing? What pardon has it brought to guilt? What knowledge has it taught—What goodness shown? None. Nor can it. A negative has no positive force—an enmity might as well try to begot children. No; infidelity never raised a man or woman from sin. It never took a drunkard from the gutter, a gambler from his cards, or the fallen from a life of shame. It never found a man coarse or brutal in life and character, and made of him a kind husband and father. It never went into heathen lands among the morally depraved and lifted them out of their degradation to a high state of civilization. It has never written down languages, translated literature or prepared text-books, or planted schools, or established seminaries or colleges. It has never founded hospitals for the sick or homes for the homeless. What discoveries has it made? Has it added anything to human happiness? Does it bring one ray of comfort or joy to the chamber of death? The religion of Jesus has done this, and more, too. "The tree is known by its fruits."

A KIND WORD.

A kind word costs but little, but it may bless all day the one whom it is spoken. Nay, have not kind words been spoken to you which have lived in your heart through years, and borne fruit of joy and hope? Let us speak kindly to one another. We have burdens and worries, but let us not, therefore, grasp and irritate those near us these we love, those whom Christ would have us save. Speak kindly in the morning; it lightens the cares of the day, and makes the household and all its affairs move along smoothly. Speak kindly at night, for it may be before dawn some loved one may finish his or her race of life for this world, and it will be too late to ask forgiveness.

THE WATCHER IN THE PEW.

His neck is fitted on a globe-socket and turns clear around. He sees everything that goes on. The man who comes in late does not escape him, and it is vain for the tumbler to think he goes that little note to the alto conveyed between the leaves of a hymn-book, unobserved. The watcher saw it. He sees a hole in the quarter that Elder Skinner dropped into the plate. He sees that Deacon Flow-boy has but one cuff. If the door swings he looks around; if the window moves noiselessly, he looks up. He sees the stranger in his neighbor's pew, and he sees Brother Badman sitting away back under the gallery, surreptitiously take a chew of the forbidden fine cut. All things that nobody wants him to see, the watcher sees. He sees so much that he has no time to listen.

You would laugh at a child who should try to pick up a heavy sledge hammer to kill a mosquito. But many grown-up children quail as foolishly use their strength. They waste strength. They fret, worry, wait about, get into a passion, have no time to eat or to sleep properly—indeed, often sit up so late and get so tired that they can't sleep. These persons whether old or young, need to learn the following simple rules: 1. Never fret yourself or anybody else. 2. Never indulge in fits of passion, nor the blues. 3. Never do this in a confused hurry. 4. Eat regularly, cheerfully, moderately, but don't eat what is indigestible. 5. Don't cut short your sleep. Get eight hours of it in clean, well ventilated rooms. 6. Give stomach and brain, as well as your hands, all the rest they need. 7. Be self controlled, calm, hopeful. Keep a good conscience and cheerfully trust God.

You will never have a friend if you must have one without a fault.

A woman without religion is like a flower without perfume.

COMPANY GARB.

Too many of us seem to act on the principle that anything is good enough for those we associate with at home. They are "our folks" and it doesn't matter what we say, or do, or how we say or do it, when no outsider is present. We have our every day clothes and manners on then. When some one calls we put on our company garb, and are very different persons. We hardly know each other. We are a charming family, as our visitors probably think, because of the harmony that exists. But when the door is closed on our visitors we draw a breath of relief and feel at liberty to relapse into our old ways again. We are so unused to company ways that we do not feel at home in them. But this is all wrong. We ought to consider home and all the members of the household as entitled to the first consideration in all things. What are those that we meet in society to us that we should take such pains to be agreeable to them and neglect those who have the strongest claim upon us? It all comes about because we have got into the wrong way of thinking. We have put the home into the background when it should occupy the foremost place in our thoughts. We should strive to make ourselves such pleasant members of the household band that our absence is like the loss of the sunshine from a summer day. We can do it and we will do it if we enter into the right spirit—the spirit of home. The idea seems to exist among us that to be polite to each other in the family circle is foolish and like putting on airs. We must get ourselves rid of this notion and set on the principle that whatever helps to make our intercourse pleasanter outside the family circle should be brought into use there. We should avail ourselves to any and everything that can be used to advantage in our daily intercourse. It is no exhibition of airs to say "thank you" or "if you please." These little courtesies are indications of refinement, and costing nothing. They help to make the wheel of life move more smoothly. It is not in elaborate attempts at politeness that true gentility consists. It is in the simple, honest expression of the genuine feelings of the heart which is interested in the welfare of others.

FOR THE FARM.

Make the farm pleasant and profitable and the boys will stick to it.

Every farmer should be interested in the question of good roads. It is a most important one.

The best products of the farm are the boys and girls. Be sure you don't give them less attention and care than you do of your other fine stock.

Every class of tradesmen, wage workers and professional men has its organization. The farmer stands alone without an organization, and he is beginning to realize its importance.

Don't "hide your light under a bushel." If you know anything that will help your neighbor, some method of farming that he has not seen, explain it to him personally and through the Big Sandy News. It will cost you nothing to do this and will help him along.

Some farmers are like like Partridge when he put a hundred eggs under one hen. His mother reprimanded him for it, and wanted to know what he did it for. "Why I just wanted to see the old critter spread herself," replied he. Many farmers cultivate too much ground, and do it badly. Intensive farming is not only more pleasant, but in many instances more profitable. Thorough cultivation will always pay best.

Corn and Annual Clover.

Editor:

I believe there is more clear money made on corn followed by annual clover than any other crop.

I believe in deep plowing, thorough preparation and quick and often cultivation.

In 1904 I put a lot in after cutting clover, on June 1 applyin 200 pounds of acid phosphate in the drill per acre, checked the land two by four feet and put two and three grains to the hill. I cultivated it with a fourteen tooth harrow and cultivator. When the corn was about as high as my head six feet, I applied 100 pounds -28-2 guano, covering it with a turning plow.

I made ten barrels of corn to the acre and 1,000 pounds of good fodder.
